Equity markets sold-off in September as a response to stubborn inflation data which resulted in a large sell-off in bonds. The S&P/ASX Small Ordinaries Index fell 11.2% for the month against the Dynamic Small Companies Fund's fall of 7.2%. Our cautious positioning and elevated cash position provided some resistance to the sell-off, with the downside capture of 59%. We were pleased to officially lock in three-year inception performance of 5.7% p.a. against the benchmark loss of -0.8% p.a. The month also marks the nine-year inception performance of the same strategy which has returned 10.4% p.a. against the benchmark return of 4.9% p.a. The Fund strategy has captured over 100% of the market-upside and ~60% of the market-downside since inception.

Performance was led by Neuren Pharmaceuticals, which rallied 13.3% on index inclusion and news they have been granted Priority Review by the FDA. Its drug Trofinetide treats Rett Syndrome - a rare neurological disease predominantly affecting females. We believe the probability of a successful approval is high and are excited at commercialisation prospects. Additional early-stage drugs in the portfolio treating markets far larger than Rett Syndrome provide further valuation optionality.

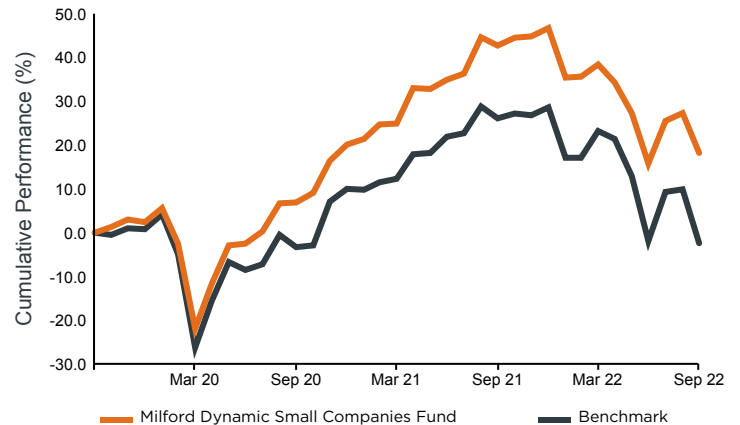

Sleep Apnea global leader ResMed provides a defensive exposure for the portfolio (+5.3%) and continues to benefit from product recalls from competitors. Philips recalled a sleep product over health risks early in the month creating an immediate opportunity for ResMed. We think the delivery of resilient earnings at the upcoming result could be a near term catalyst. Our industry channel checks suggest that there has been a boom in ResMed volumes being supplied to their distributors, on the back of the recall.

Diversified miner IGO rallied 2.4%. IGO continue to manage inflation and Covid pressures better than most in WA. The take up of electric vehicles is the key demand driver and there is growing evidence that this is once again accelerating in China and Europe. IGO remains one of our preferred mining exposures.

Detractors included stalwarts CarSales (-15.4%) and Collins Foods (-11.2%), both companies weren't immune to the broader sell-off.

Our broader view is unchanged, we believe economic and behavioural impacts of rate rises will start to emerge over the coming quarters, particularly as the negative wealth effect from falling house prices starts to pinch. As this equity weakness continues, we will look to establish longer term buy and hold opportunities at attractive prices. We have selectively started this process given our elevated cash position, however only in moderate size. We enter the back end of the year with a diversified portfolio given the wide array of outcomes.
