After a volatile April, global share markets continued their climb into May leaving global shares close to all-time highs. The same was true in Australia. Despite modestly underperforming global markets, the ASX200 still rose 4.2%. The Fund performed well, up 2.0%, outperforming its benchmark by 1.3%, but lagging the broader equity market.

The standout sector over the month was technology, supported by solid earnings updates and a return of the AI trade, as well as RBA rate cuts. At a stock level, key technology winners for the Fund included software company Life360 (+51.9%) after delivering a strong earnings update beating consensus expectations. Software company Xero was also a solid contributor (+12.2%), on the back of results highlighting progress on further integrating its product partnerships and potential to accelerate its US roll out. Other winners included gold miners, with core holding Genesis Minerals (+22.3%), performing well on the back of strong gold prices as well as announcing the acquisition of the Laverton Gold Project from Focus Minerals, adding additional growth and resource to their pipeline.

Detractors over the month included Insignia Financial, as two bidders withdrew from competition for the asset, which saw weakness in the share price.

At a market level, we are cognisant of the sharp equity market rally that has driven stocks back up to near all-time highs, and full valuations. We are also monitoring bond markets, which remain volatile as investors try and understand the trajectory of global growth and government spending, and their need to fund this spending. While bond market volatility is a key risk, elevated government spending globally does reduce the likelihood of economic weakness. This creates a reasonable outlook for investments going forward, especially once we move past the policy uncertainty. This is reflected in our Fund positioning.
