August was a positive month for Australian equities, with the ASX 200 rising 1.5% as reporting season proved more resilient than expected. Resources and healthcare led the market higher, while consumer-facing sectors lagged amid higher interest rate expectations and weaker sentiment. The Fund returned 1.5% during the month, outperforming its benchmark by 0.7%.

Resources were strong paced higher by BHP (+9.8%) on better-than-expected results, higher commodity prices and additional capital returns. Gold producers were also particularly strong as elevated bond issuance weighed on long-dated bond yields and was coupled with market scepticism on the Federal Reserve's inflation-fighting credentials supporting real assets and a lower US dollar. At a stock level, the strongest performers were holdings Genesis Minerals (+44.0%), Newmont (+31.2%) and Capricorn (+29.3%). Healthcare was also a positive contributor with CSL (+39.4%) reporting better-than-expected results and Ramsay Healthcare (+15.7%) beating expectations.

Elevated tensions in the Middle East continued to support our cautious view around global energy markets and highlight the need for additional oil and gas capital expenditure. Our holding in Schlumberger (+21.2%) rallied over the month. Other winners included our holding in FleetPartners (+47.7%) on the back of a takeover proposal.

The outlook for global share markets remains supported by strong earnings growth driven by AI investment while facing headwinds from inflation pressures, higher interest rates and the substantial AI funding requirements. The Fund retains energy and refining holdings which will benefit if oil and fuel prices continue to move higher. In Australia this outlook is more nuanced with less direct AI beneficiaries, with a weakening Australian housing market triggered by higher interest rates, federal budget changes to tax treatment and likely further rate increases from the Reserve Bank of Australia (RBA) given recent data. This is somewhat offset by valuations in domestic cyclical starting to reflect a lot of the near-term uncertainty, creating both increased uncertainty and opportunities and we will look to take selective opportunities while maintaining vigilance.
